Who am I? reading

House

Awaiting your details

House is the order of the Western Zodiac months, beginning in spring with Aries (April), House 1, and completing the cycle at spring break with Pisces (March), House 12. House is calculated from your birth date and joins Life Path to form your VIA Life Compass.

Five lessons,

5 of 5

Who am I? 190–205 words, designed for 90–115 seconds with brief pauses. The document includes narration, visual order and NotebookLM production instructions.

NotebookLM instruction

Create one teaching video for each maxim. Use only that lesson’s script and its approved glossary material. Keep each video under two minutes, including opening titles and pauses. Define each attribute before displaying its code. Preserve the formulas and presentation order. Use a calm teacher voice, blue backgrounds, gold headings and large bold text. End with the recall question and answer.

1. Who am I? — Identity

Welcome to Alexandria. Begin with the first AMA question: Who am I?

Your House places your Western Zodiac within its twelve-part order. Aries begins at House one; Pisces completes the cycle at House twelve. Each House carries a theme for study.

Your commonly called first name forms your Mantra. Its first letter is the Cornerstone: your aptitude and how you begin projects, work and relationships. Its final letter is the Capstone: how you bring things to completion.

Between them sits the Mantra Software Triad. Dream comes from consonants. Urge comes from vowels. Niche comes from all the letters. The Mantra Key, or MKID, joins Cornerstone, Dream, Urge, Niche and Capstone, in that order.

Your birth date forms your Genesis. The Genesis Code reduces month, day and year. Its middle value gives Psyche. Month plus Psyche gives Attitude; Attitude plus year gives Life Path, with each sum reduced.

The Genesis Software Triad is Psyche, Attitude and Life Path. Genesis Hardware is Western Zodiac, Eastern Aura and Animal. Pinnacles describe addition-based stages; Challenges describe subtraction-based themes.

Finally, the Identity Key, MGKID, joins your Cornerstone to your Life Path.

Recall: which comes from your calling name—Mantra or Genesis? Mantra. Study your identity blocks, then enter the test.

2. Where am I? — Awareness

Identity gives you a starting point. Awareness asks: Where am I?

The Period Code, PC, preserves your birth month and day, followed by your reduced birth year. It places your Genesis beside the life-period framework of Lantern 369: Genesis, Midlife and Exodus. These are thirty-year periods used to study awareness across a potential ninety-year span.

Next, locate your Realm. A Realm is a year, month and day sequence. The Universal Realm follows the shared calendar. The Personal Realm places your birth Attitude within that calendar.

Reduce the calendar year to obtain Universal Year. Add the reduced calendar month to obtain Universal Month. Add the reduced day to obtain Universal Day. Reduce each sum.

For your Personal Year, add birth Attitude to Universal Year. For Personal Month, add the calendar month. For Personal Day, add the calendar day. Again, reduce each sum.

Choose today or a specific date in Lantern 369. Keep the selected date visible while you read its cycles. Use the pattern to reflect on your circumstances; your choices and actual experience supply the evidence.

Recall: what starts the Personal Year calculation? Your birth Attitude plus Universal Year.

Review PC, your life period and both Realms before the Awareness test.

3. How am I? — Experience

You have studied identity and your position in time. Experience asks: How am I?

Your Experience Key, CSKID, brings four attributes together. Their order is Cornerstone, Psyche, Attitude and Life Path. Remember that sequence as CPAL.

Cornerstone is the first letter of your calling name. It describes your aptitude and how you begin.

Psyche comes from the reduced birth day. Within AMA, it describes the mind behind your response.

Attitude combines the reduced birth month with Psyche. Reduce the sum to one through nine. Attitude describes your approach to experience.

Life Path combines Attitude with the reduced birth year. Reduce the sum according to the AMA calculation. It describes the direction studied through your Genesis.

Read these attributes together. A calling letter alone gives a partial picture. CPAL joins your starting style, mind, approach and direction into one Experience Key.

Now compare the reading with an actual event. How did you start? What were you thinking? How did you respond? What followed? Use specific observations when interpreting the pattern.

Recall: which attribute comes immediately after Cornerstone in CPAL? Psyche.

Review the four definitions and their order, then enter the Experience test.

4. What am I to become? — Destiny

Experience leads to the next question: What am I to become?

The Destiny Key, DSKID, joins your Experience Key to your Maya Day Glyph. Within AMA, the glyph supplies a symbolic societal role: a way to study the contribution you might develop.

Keep the display order clear. First CPAL: Cornerstone, Psyche, Attitude and Life Path. Then Glyph. Then Tone. Then Trecena.

The Day Glyph names the role studied through the Maya day cycle. Tone gives its position within a thirteen-day cycle. Trecena identifies the opening glyph of the thirteen-day period containing your birth date.

These are separate attributes. Read each definition before joining them into a Destiny reading.

Use the app's verified birth-date result and the approved glossary meaning. Then connect the reading to your demonstrated abilities, responsibilities and repeated choices. A symbolic role becomes useful when you can explain how it relates to your actual life.

Ask yourself: what contribution am I practicing? What responsibility would that contribution require? What evidence shows that I am developing it?

Recall: what is added to CSKID to form DSKID? Your Maya Day Glyph.

Review CPAL, Glyph, Tone and Trecena before entering the Destiny test.

5. How am I to grow? — Enlightenment

The fifth question brings the journey into practice: How am I to grow?

Begin with House. It is your Western Zodiac's position in the twelve-part order. Its theme provides one part of the growth reading.

Next comes VIA, your Enlightenment Code and Life Compass. Add your House number to your Life Path. Reduce the sum using the AMA rule; the Life Compass preserves eleven over two and twenty-two over four.

Then read Life Path beneath VIA. The display order is House, VIA, Life Path. House provides the zodiac position. Life Path provides the Genesis direction. VIA studies how those two meet.

Read the exact VIA title and definition from the approved glossary. Turn that meaning into one action you can observe. If the reading calls for expression, state clearly what needs saying. If it calls for reconstruction, identify what you will change and how you will measure the result.

Return to the five questions as your understanding develops. Identity establishes the pattern. Awareness places it in time. Experience examines its operation. Destiny studies contribution. VIA brings the reading into deliberate practice.

Recall: which two values form VIA? House and Life Path.

Study their connection, then complete the Enlightenment test.
